Diversity Productions
Dakota Documentary series

To whom it may concern:

This letter will serve to express our strong "interest in" and "support of" the programs sponsored by the Diversity Foundation for the education, well being and benefit of Native American people.

We are willing to consider using all our skills as filmmakers (writing, producing, directing) in any manner that would be of help to these Diversity Foundation programs, if basic living costs and expenses are available and our schedules permit. We live in Los Angeles and earn our living making films.

This letter will also serve to express our willingness to become involved with the film and tv series projects now in development with Diversity Productions, "Chief Wabasha" feature film and "Dakota Documentary" television series, as professional writers and/or producers and/or directors, once a budget is funded based on "minimum" WGA (Writer's Guild of America) & DGA (Director's Guild of America) signatory standards.

If our schedules permit, we will offer "free" consultation to Diversity Productions regarding production and production costs of making a feature film and mini-series, if needed.

We sincerely feel that the intentions behind getting these projects made are the very best and that once made, they will achieve a needed means of communicating the past in ways that will help heal the wounds (that must heal) before we can all move into a healthier future together.

Lyle Rustad has our greatest respect, he is a powerful and positive force in this world and his focus on helping Native children survive the difficulties of reservation life and to learn to prosper in the fast evolving world of technology is so impressive.... so very impressive!

Attached please find our resume/bios for your review and a few "production stills" from the documentary we are now producing-directing. Please feel free to contact us at any time.
